You'll find everything you need to know about connecting your AirPods to your PC and how to navigate troubleshooting issues about outdated device drivers that might be present in your system. What are AirPods and Can You Use them on your PC? AirPods are Apple-designed headphones. As well as working with other Apple products, such as Mac computers, AirPods are also compatible with Windows PCs. The airpod was connected as follows. With rich sound and stylish design, the AirPods are fun, and the fact that they can work with both Mac and Windows PCs makes them even better. Here are some useful tips on how to manually connect your AirPods to your PC with some troubleshooting tips. Manually connecting Your AirPods to a PC Connecting Your AirPods to your PC is usually a simple task. If you decide to do this, here are the basic instructions on how to connect to your computer. Place your AirPods in the charging bowl. Press the adjusting button on the AirPods charging case until a white flashing light appears on the charging case. Finally, follow the instructions on your computer to complete pairing your AirPods. This closes the steps to connect your AirPods to your computer. Although the process doesn't sound too bad, problems that require troubleshooting can occasionally arise. The AirPods microphone does not work when pairing with a PC The standard Microsoft Bluetooth driver does not always work with the microphone input of the AirPods. This is because the microphone input is considered to be one device and the audio output is considered to be another device. To resolve this issue, you must obtain a different Bluetooth driver for the adapter. If you have a custom PC and have your own Bluetooth hardware, you might need additional software to manage your devices instead of using the generic Bluetooth driver. Depending on the device, you may have the software Bluetooth Headset Helper from Broadcom, or make sure you have the most modern and updated drivers. Driver support has the latest drivers and they install automatically when you connect your AirPods. Most users can expect to see this problem as well as any other updated drivers for any device without bulky software from manufacturers. Download driver support In Action Center, choose All > Devices > Bluetooth & other devices, and follow the instructions to add Airpods. After the pairing process begins, press the ring button on the charging case until the process is complete. Learn how to connect your AirPods to a non-Apple computer using Bluetooth devices. The instructions in this article apply to all Apple AirPods and Windows PCs with wireless capabilities. The way apple airpods are connected is exactly the same as adding any other Bluetooth speaker or headphones to your Windows pc: Select the Action Center icon in the lower-right corner of the Windows taskbar to open Windows Action Center. In Windows Action Center, select All. While opening the Action Center, make sure Bluetooth is enabled. The Bluetooth tile must be highlighted; if not, select the tile to turn it on. Select Devices in windows settings. Select the Bluetooth & Other Devices tab on the left, and then select Add Bluetooth or other devices. Select Bluetooth in the Add Device window. Apple AirPods should appear on the list as AirPods. To start the pairing process, select AirPods. If your AirPods don't appear, open the charging case cover. Press the circle button on the back of the Apple AirPod charging case while the lid is open. The light in the charging case must change from green to white. Continue pressing the sync button until pairing is complete. If you receive an error message, press synchronisation on your charging case before selecting your AirPods in the Bluetooth device list. Apple If you paired it properly, your device is ready! message is displayed. Select Done to close the message. Apple AirPods can connect to any pc, from laptops and traditional desktops to modern Windows 10 devices like surface pro, as long as they have Bluetooth connectivity. Once For a Windows 10 PC, Apple AirPods let you listen to audio, input sound, volume, or pause audio with tap controls through the built-in microphone. If Apple AirPods doesn't work on your Windows PC, try these fixes: Disable Bluetooth on other devices. If you paired your AirPods with your iPhone, it might interfere with your connection to your computer, so try temporarily turning off Bluetooth on other devices. Open the lid of the charging case. Apple AirPods connect to devices when the charging case lid is opened and the light turns green. Try opening the lid for a few seconds before removing your AirPods and inserting them into your ear. If you're still having problems, follow these troubleshooting steps: Open an app, such as Spotify, on your Windows 10 PC and start playing music. Put your Apple AirPods back in the charging case and close the lid, then wait a few seconds. Seremin / Getty Images Open Action Center and select All settings. Select Devices in windows settings. Make sure your AirPods are on the list of paired devices. Open the charging case cover, remove the AirPods and place them in both ears. John Edelson / Getty Images Select AirPods in the device list, and then select Connect. Your AirPods must be connected and the sound must play through them. If Apple AirPods still don't play audio, go to All Settings > Devices, then choose Remove Device under AirPods, and then repeat the pairing process. Thank you for let us know! Tell me why. Hi sz, took a couple of weeks to sort out but I have my Airpods working perfectly on Windows 10, this includes the microphone I am now able to use Airpods as a Bluetooth headset for gaming etc. The key is in Bluetooth software that Windows does not provide via Windows driver update. For example, I have an Asus BT-400 dongle, if I get the drivers to do so just include the driver files, the Airpods will need extra software that comes with chip manufacturer Broadcom. This is called Bluetooth headset helper. This is necessary to add windows as both the Airpods headset and stereo headphones. For anyone else who has this adapter and is struggling using this link and thank me later, again this exe comes with the driver as well as the management software needed to recognize Airpods properly. is not perfect and the driver is from 2013, but I was very happy that hopefully this will help others.
